PHILOSOPHY OF CARE

Before I became a doctor, I started as a patient. I was born with a heart defect that was monitored and then surgically repaired as a teenager. I was lucky to have a wonderful cardiologist who followed me from birth until I left for college, serving not only as my cardiologist, but also a mentor on how to treat patients and their families with integrity and respect. My formal medical training began at UCLA medical school, I was drawn to pediatrics and became involved in the pediatric cardiology department, where I studied pediatric heart transplantation. I completed my pediatrics residency at Stanford/Lucille Packard Children's hospital. After considering sub-specialty training, I realized that I enjoyed treating healthy children as well as children with medical conditions.

I joined CHCRR right after residency and have been here ever since. I like my patients and families to be active participants in our medical team. I believe that my role is to provide the medical information necessary to empower you and your family to make educated choices about your child's care.
